cracy is already beginning to droop. The starch is vanishing from its lofty port. The very thought of the counts of 1860 causes its guilty bears to quake with fear. One would think from the epirit or lack of apirit manifested by the leaders of this party shat they were not only confronted with signs of dissolution by day but haunted by wistons of ruth by night. And it is in perfect accordance with the known laws of psychology to suppose that they are.

The organs of the Southern wing of the party are especially despondegt. Indeed, their despondency seems verging to desperation. "The Charleston Mercary," says the Naw York Timer, "discussing the steadily lecreasing tendency of political parties towards a purely sectional organization, expresses some doubt as to whether the Charleston Nominating Convention will ever meet, and says that if it does, the Democratic party can only be properly represented in it by Southern delegates. The whole party in the North, it alleges, is tainted with antislavety heresies or prejudices, and is interly averse to supporting the slaveholding States in the assertion of their rights. It cites the refusal of the Northern Democracy to sustain the Lecompton policy of Mr. Buchanan, and their general desertion of his Administration in support of this opinion. Meantime, it says, the Southern Democracy to sustain the Lecompton policy of Mr. Buchanan, and their general desertion of his Administration in support of this opinion. Meantime, it says, the Southern Democracy to austain the Lecompton policy of Mr. Buchanan, and their general desertion of his Administration in support of this opinion. Meantime, it says, the Southern Democracy to austain the Lecompton p ganization; and it looks forward confidently to a purely sectional contest at the next election." In purely sectional course; at the next election." In most of these particulars, the Mercury is undoubtedly correct, so far at least as its own party is concerned. The whole Democratic party in the North in the following laudatory manner: in abolitionized, as it says, and a portion of the party in the South is not any better, which it doesn't appear to eee, whilst the Southers Democracy proper, under the control of extremist, is unquestionably preparing to make the meet of the Control of the heresias of its alities in the interest of dissension and distinction. One section of the Democracy is thus abolitionized and the other section is disunion. While plastering Collins over with Damocratic t must be owned that the viaw is admirably calcu- data for Comptroller, formerly a Democrat, or

and hold fast to that which is bad and fastect to that which is worst. Others besistate or meditate; they act. Whilst patriots are pondering and deploring the corrupting heresias which are abroad in the land these fiery spirits of sedition are hailing and using them as the instruments of national diasoduton. With sagacity enough to foresee the probable birth of an avengting conservative party from the ordered; for, like the pestilent vermin they are, they flourish only, if our readers will pardon the may be remembered, adjourned to Vicksburg, Miss., and thitber "the people of the Southern States" are now savited to go or send their representatives on the 9th of May next. The names appended to the call are, J.D. B. DeBow, of Louisians, John J. McRae, are, J. D. B. DeBow, of Louisiana, John J. McRae, cey, of Alabama, and W. H. Chase, of Florida, names belonging to just so many deadly enemies of the Union. It is unnecessary to add that they are all Democrats. The terms of the call itself are evidently chosen with the design of antrapping as many wel-manning citizens of the South as possible. The real object of the Conversion, as abundantly developed by the action of its predecessore, it carrielly kept in the back-ground, or veiled in general pressions of devotion to the South as possible. y. What names are the ''patriot sources'' from which ''come warnings of danger'' and ''appeals or action.''? And what are the ''warnings of danger against which the Couvention would provide"?

and what the "appeals for action to which the Couvention would respond"? The answers to these questions, if given, would disclose the whole breafts and depth and height of the treasonable schema the Couvention is designed to forward. But they are not given. Far from it. The time for that has not arrived. The scheme is not sufficiently rips for exposure. Yet what intelligent patriot doubts that under this thin mask to the most determined and destructive of all the foes of American liberty?

Who does not clearly reagnize through all diagnize of the control of Mr. Bradford, it was ordered that the same sum shall be paid in to bacco premiums in the same sum shall be paid in to bacco premiums in the same sum shall be paid in to bacco premiums in the same sum shall be paid in tobacco premiums ger against which the Convention would provide"?

The post of avery generica lover of his country is beneath that radiant standard; and there we hope to meet no incensiderable portion of the Democratic masses of Kentucky next August, and the Democratic masses of the South in 1800. Fallow citizens the Democratic base and the West South in 1800. of the Democracy! look about you, and toe where else, if anywhere, in this extraordinary juncture, a patriot and a friend of Southern rights can go.

DISTRESSING SUICIDE.—A gentleman residing in the neighborhood where the event occurred gives us the following particulars of a most distressing suicide: "Miss Sally Taylor, aged about 30 years, residing with her brother and an lavalid sister, in Wilson county, about 16 miles from this city, hung herself to a tree with a bridle. She srose in the morning as usual and left the room. Her brether arone about the same time, and as was his custom proceeded to her room to make a firs, having done which he started in the direction of the cook room to kindle a fire there. Proceeding along he cast his eye down a declivity in the rear of the house, in the direction of the spring, and saw his sister awinging in the air. He ran to her at once, and cut the bridle, but he was too late—the vital spark had fied.

No cause is assigned for the deed. The brother says she attempted the same thing a year ago, but was thwarted, and the attempt kept a secret. The persents of the family are dead, and the title to the estate is was the about hadden.

New York Times.

A New Fore Arm.—A burglar detecting gnn, of very simple construction, and easy of application, was exhibited in our office y esterday, by the lavent or, J. P. Wilson. It is made to fastee on the door frame with a acrew, so that whan the door is opened a spring is forced back, which, striking the cap, discharges the load. The noise made by the explosion of the cap alone is a good alarm. It is, in a short and perfect pistol, put into a new shape which, when properly fastened with a screw at tached to the door, window, or blind, is discharged when aither is opened. It may, moreover, be carried is the vest posteoic, and used as a weapon either of offense or defance.
